Proadwan and Tifty Fifth Street New York

Flotel Woodward

OCATED on Broadway, at the corner of Fifty-fifth St., with entrances on both streets, the Hotel Woodward offers to a discriminating public a trio of advantages that it would be difficult to duplicate even in New York, the city of vast hotels and enormous apartment houses. The Hotel Woodward combines convenience, luxury, and home comfort in a remarkable degree, and commends itself more particularly to people of refined tastes who desire to locate—either temporarily or for a lengthened period—within easy reach of the shopping, social, and dramatic centers, in a quiet neighborhood, with entire freedom from the conspicuousness attendant upon living in the strictly transient hotels.

Convenience

HE Hotel Woodward, at Fifty-fifth Street and Broadway, is less than a half mile from Times Square, New York's newest social center; is directly upon the city's most famous thoroughfare in the heart of the automobile district; is surrounded by public transportation facilities of every character, yet is not so close to any of them that the noise of traffic is either troublesome or noticeable.

Fireproof

S to the safety of this hotel's construction and equipment it is enough to say that the board of fire underwriters has assigned it the lowest insurance rate of any New York hotel.

The Restaurant is one of the finest in the city at the possible standard, added to which there is e service and cuisine are maintained at the highest always music by an excellent orchestra.

Comfort

HE private apartments of the Hotel Woodward are ideal. There are conveniently arranged suites and single rooms, daintily and perfectly fitted up and furnished. attached to which are the finest private bathrooms in New York. In the annex there are suites for housekeeping, and these are let furnished or unfurnished as desired, with or without the full service of the hotel. The Management of the Hotel Woodward makes its strongest claim, however, in its care for the personal welfare of its patrons. Intelligent discrimination secures to it a select and exclusive patronage, and the moral atmosphere of the Hotel is invariably of the highest standard. There will never be found any features that can possibly offend.

The Colonia

Q This beautiful new resort hotel is located in the residential section of Columbia, S. C., where its stucco walls and red tile roofs are set off by the picturesque mansions and majestic trees of the quaint and historic Southern Capital. It is the most modern example of hotel construction.

Q The temperature here is uniformly mild; the dry, pine-scented air is invigorating. Outdoor amusements include riding and driving on excellent roads, golf, shooting on private preserves, tennis, fox-hunting, etc.

(I Address The Colonia, Columbia, S. C., or New York booking office, Hotel Woodward.
